I am happy to share that after many years of advocating for financial education, on March 22, 2022, Governor DeSantis signed the Financial Literacy Bill which will require ½ credit in personal finance for students who enter high school in the 2023-2024 school year and going forward. Finances affect everyone, every day. Let us help you manage where you want to be. We are your partner.

Your credit union strives to make banking easy from loans to savings, financial education, and online access. We thank you for the trust you have instilled in us by choosing us for your banking needs. As an owner, be sure to review the Annual Meeting notice later in this publication. This is YOUR credit union.

Yours in service,

New Year New Money Habits

*Small Changes for Improving
Your Financial Health in the New Year*

The New Year is an opportunity to reinforce your healthy money habits and explore new financial habits and goals. Building positive money habits can affect your entire well-being. Here are a few ideas to try as the New Year gets underway:

1. Set a Goal (and Write It Down)

Goal-setting gives you direction. Define your goal and make a plan to get there. This action might seem small, but it's not. Make a habit of looking at monthly finances and jotting down one or two goals, such as taking a bite out of your credit card balances or saving each month towards a large purchase.

2. Set it and Forget it

Setting up "auto pay" on monthly utilities, cable, and other bills lets you be sure bills are paid on time without a second thought. Consider setting up "auto save" as well. This can be helpful when planning a big purchase, like the down payment for a car. Automating monthly savings can help you achieve your goal. Set up automatic transfers or use direct deposit from your paycheck to automatically place funds in your goal account.

3. Spend with Care

Mindful spending is a powerful financial habit. Build the habit of using a monthly spending or budgeting plan. Budgeting helps you learn how much money you have to work with; the amount that is going out each month for bills and expenses; and what you need to set aside for other bills and living expenses. This planning will help you set your savings goals from each paycheck.

4. Deal with Debt

Think about your habits when using your credit card and when considering your total debt situation. Are most of your purchases made with consumer credit cards? What are your current credit card balances and other debt balances? Listing out all your monthly debt payments helps you stay aware and act if needed. If you are in the habit of only making minimum payments on your credit card balances or experiencing collection calls, consider learning about how a Debt Management Plan can help support healthy money habits.

5. Celebrate Your Progress

Your existing positive habits are something to be proud of, and you can apply those lessons to building new money habits. Make it simple. Tackle one habit at a time and celebrate your wins. The New Year is sure to be a success when you tackle one habit at a time and make it work for you.

Your Financial Year Designed... In January

Allocate time away from making financial decisions through the year.

Provided by Daniel Kelley

With the new year still fresh in our minds, it's a good time to take inventory of what might be just around the corner in the coming months.

It could be any number of things: changes in your household, moving to a new home that better fits your needs, or maybe even changing jobs or starting a new business. And even if it seems far away now, there's always retirement to think about.

Now is an excellent time for us to have a chat and catch up about what you think this year might look like for you. Taking a little time at the beginning of the year to think about how much you want to be saving, spending, and investing in your future can take a lot of the guesswork out of your month to month.

Mark down financial deadlines, important dates, and planned events for the year now and save yourself the dash as they get close. All you need is a few minutes to sit down, find YOUR important financial dates and tag them so you know they're coming.

Want someone to find these days and deadlines with you? Work with you to make sure these are the right decisions for you and then help make sure you're accountable. Let me help you build out your financial framework, give us a call today!

We welcome the opportunity to talk about how we can develop a strategy to pursue your financial independence. Please feel free to reach out to us at 352-588-4608 or email us at info@cloverleafteam.com.

Your Home. Your Dreams.

We are ready to help!

Right now is an opportune time to leverage your home's equity for home renovation projects such as updating your kitchen, replacing your roof, or finishing the landscaping. Additionally, a home equity loan can be used to consolidate debt and reduce your overall monthly payments.

We have a home equity line of credit that is secured by the value of your home. You can draw funds up to the approved limit for 10 years. At the end of the draw period, you have 9 years to pay off the balance. We also have a fixed rate equity loan. The equity loan will be fully disbursed at closing and the payments are amortized over 15 years. If you have a large remodel in mind, we also offer fixed rate and adjustable- rate conventional cash out refinances.

With home values higher than ever, whichever product you choose will let you take advantage of the equity you have in your home.

The Promises and PERILS of Buy Now, Pay Later

Buy now, pay later (BNPL) programs almost seem too good to be true. You can walk away with that overpriced exercise bike, entertainment system, sectional sofa or anything else that caught your eye without having the money to pay for it now. And there are almost no eligibility requirements to qualify.

How BNPL works: You'll find a BNPL button when checking out at most online retailers. This option will typically link you to a BNPL service, such as Afterpay, Affirm, or Quadpay. Brick-and-mortar stores may also offer you buy now pay later options, which are also managed through a third-party affiliated like the examples above.

If you choose to purchase through a BNPL option, a soft credit check may be performed to confirm your information. Once approved, you can choose to link your debit card, checking account, or credit card so the app can collect your installment payments. Next, you'll generally make a 25% deposit on the purchase, and the item is yours! Most BNPL plans require you to pay off the rest in three fixed installments, but payment schedules can vary.

When to choose BNPL: BNPL programs can be a good choice for items you urgently need, but can't afford right now, like medical equipment that's not covered by insurance. It can also be ideal for workers with an uneven income flow who may experience lean times of the year but know that better cash flow is ahead.

Why BNPL can be a bad idea: Installment payment plans encourage overspending. It's easy to think that, if you'll only be paying a small part of the price today, why not buy it now instead of financing the full amount?

Missed payments are penalized. Some services slap an interest charge on your outstanding balance, with rates as high as 40%. Other programs will charge a one-time late fee, which can be as high as $39. Others will tack on an extra fixed fee to all subsequent payments.

It can kill responsible financial habits. If a consumer has purchased multiple items through BNPL programs, the monthly payments won't be so minimal. The payments will need to be factored into a budget and can eat into other categories, like savings.

Buy now, pay later programs may be convenient, but they also present risks. Our best advice? Use with caution. Give us a call or stop by to discuss our VISA credit card or personal loan options.

We want to hear from YOU!
